Introduction

To complete this assignment, we need to conceptualise a brand of our choice, develop its overall visual identity, conduct audience research, develop a strategy and create a marketing campaign, and then prepare a presentation of our overall results.

ChocBerry is an Irish brand offering chocolate-covered strawberries, combining the pleasure of chocolate with the freshness of locally produced Irish strawberries.

ChocBerry is committed to creating unique and enjoyable gifts that celebrate the big and small moments of life. These gifts can be pre-ordered or delivered to delight your loved ones and make the experience memorable.

This report describes the development of the ChocBerry brand, target audience research, competitor analysis, marketing campaign strategy and the creation of visually cohesive promotional materials.

Brand development

Brand Name

The name of this brand is “ChocBerry”. The first part of ‘Choc’ is a shortened version of the word chocolate, which is the right explanation of the product and its composition. The second part of the word ‘Berry’ has the direct meaning of berry and is also the second part of the word ‘Strawberry’.

Thus, the name “ChocBerry” is not only a memorable brand name but also a direct description of the berry in chocolate. Of course, in addition to the final decision, several other name options were considered, such as: “ChocoBerry” or “SweetBerry”, but they did not match the brand and its consonance.

In addition, they seemed too complicated to memorise and did not fit the language very well. However, the penultimate version, “ChocoBerry,” was suitable, but the pronunciation was a bit difficult. That's why, after experimenting with different variations, I decided on “ChocBerry”.

Potential competitors also have good brand names, but in my opinion, none of them refers to the main ingredient, which is chocolate. For example, “Very Berry” and “Finch & Berry” sound good, but their meaning is only about berries, while our brand name fully conveys the result they will get after ordering “ChocBerry”, which I think is very important in promotion and brand recognition.

Brand Mission

A mission statement expresses the reason for an organization's existence, addressing both internal and external populations, (Comstock, 2024).

Chosen Mission Statement: “To spread joy and create memorable moments with freshly crafted, chocolate-covered strawberries, blending indulgence with elegance.”

ChocBerry's mission statement encapsulates the essence of the brand's purpose. It is to enhance life's special moments with luxurious and thoughtful gifts that combine premium quality and local pride.

This statement reflects the brand's commitment to providing enjoyable experiences through luxurious and thoughtful products.

Emphasising fun and elegance, ChocBerry is positioned as a brand that aligns with both the emotional and aesthetic values of consumers.

The mission also emphasises the core values of freshness and quality and reinforces ChocBerry's commitment to using locally sourced ingredients.

Brand Vision

A vision statement looks to the future and outlines the accomplishments an organization hopes to achieve, (Comstock N. W., 2024).

Vision Statement:

“To become Ireland's leading brand for handmade premium chocolate gifts, renowned for quality, sustainability and unforgettable customer experiences”.

The ChocBerry concept reflects the brand's ambition to become a quality exemplar in the Irish premium gift market. As a leader in the chocolate and premium gift sector, ChocBerry endeavours to be not just a confectionery brand, but an example of high-quality, ethical gifts.

The brand also emphasises sustainability and customer experience. This plays a key role in brand credibility and building trust in the brand, which is very important for building long-term relationships with customers.

Brand Values

ChocBerry's brand values are directly linked to providing a quality premium product and excellent customer experience to enhance the brand's reputation.

Quality: ChocBerry places a high priority on using only premium ingredients, including locally sourced Irish strawberries and high-quality chocolate, to ensure an exceptional flavour experience.

Freshness: Freshness is key to the chocolate-covered strawberry brand. Each product is prepared daily, adhering to all sanitary measures so that customers receive a product that provides not only visual pleasure but also a taste sensation due to the freshness of the products.

Sustainability: ChocBerry not only adheres to the principles of sustainability in the sourcing of ingredients but also pays great attention to the use of ecological packaging. This plays an important role in customer loyalty and sharing their interest in preserving the environment.

Customer Satisfaction: Providing a perfect experience for customers that not only leaves them satisfied but also makes them want to come back again and again, plays a crucial role in building good relationships with customers.

Customer satisfaction is the most important condition for building a loyal customer base.

Both values reflect ChocBerry's commitment to delivering ethically responsible, premium products that customers can trust and enjoy, creating a brand that is aligned with their values.

Brand Guidelines

Logo Variations

The logo is considered the visual face of a brand, it is the first sign customers see before they get acquainted with the company's products/services, (2018).

Primary logo: This is the main ChocBerry logo, designed to represent the brand on the main sites and all customer touchpoints. The logo should be prominently displayed in the header of the ChocBerry website and used on key business documents such as invoices, forms and order forms. On the packaging, this core logo will be placed on key surfaces to ensure brand recognition, especially in new markets where viewers may not be familiar with the brand. The logo will also be used in newsletters, emails and push notifications, for better recognition amongst all competitors.

Dark Background Logo: This logo is designed for dark backgrounds and is ideal for social media posts and dark-themed advertising. The logo has the same font style but uses a contrasting colour to ensure visibility on dark backgrounds.

Light Background Logo: a secondary logo optimised for light backgrounds. This logo is best used when the brand is established and there is no need for its emphasis on visibility. This version is suitable for social media icons, light-coloured packaging, employee uniforms, icon sites and ChocBerry apps.

Logo Variation: It is used for a variety of colour variations of the logo for effective perception on digital platforms, and thanks to this it is much easier to choose a logo suitable for different marketing posts and packaging of new products.

Colour Palette

Colour influences consumer behaviour and perception, evokes moods and emotions; And helps companies position or differentiate from competitors, (Rathee, 2019-2020).The ChocBerry colour scheme uses three primary colours, which not only harmonise perfectly with each other but are also responsible for certain aspects of the brand.

Dark brown: In colour psychology, dark brown is often associated with richness, warmth and sophistication. This shade of dark brown emphasises the nobility of the chocolate coating and conveys the luxurious quality of ChocBerry products. It symbolises the depth of flavour and premium ingredients that ChocBerry prides itself on. The colour also evokes a sense of down-to-earth comfort, creating a cosy atmosphere that will appeal to customers who want to kick back and relax.

Dusty Pink: Dusty pink brings a soft, romantic element to the ChocBerry branding. Pink is usually associated with affection, joy and sweetness, and it fits perfectly with the idea of chocolate-covered strawberries as a treat or gift for a loved one. This shade reflects the delicate and joyful experience of enjoying strawberries. It also conveys the familiarity and charm of the brand and suggests that ChocBerry is a brand that celebrates special moments and emotional connections.

Creamy White: Creamy white in the ChocBerry palette serves as an additional neutral hue that brings balance and elegance. It represents authenticity and purity and emphasises the brand's commitment to quality and freshness. These colours also evoke a sense of calm and simplicity, reassuring customers that ChocBerry is a trusted choice of treats that provide comfort and relaxation, like the simple pleasure of chocolate-covered strawberries.

Together, the colours harmoniously express an atmosphere of romance and sophistication, creating a brand image that appeals to those who look for not only quality but also an emotional connection in treats.

Tone of voice

ChocBerry's brand tone combines warmth, sophistication and a slight playfulness. On social media, especially on Instagram and TikTok, ChocBerry communicates in a relaxed, engaging manner, creating a friendly confectionery shop atmosphere, as ChocBerry's audience values honesty and openness, ChocBerry is a real and ‘live’ brand, inviting people to share moments of sweet delight.

When it comes to the quality of ingredients and environmental concerns, the tone becomes serious and involved. This emphasises the importance of quality and ChocBerry's attention to detail.

ChocBerry is inspired by Very Berry's approach and adheres to a warm and friendly communication style. However, ChocBerry emphasises a more refined and playful style, appealing to customers who want quality and beautiful desserts while maintaining uniqueness.

Market Research & Target Audience Analysis

Market Trends

The luxury gifting market in Ireland has grown significantly in recent years. This growth has come as consumers have become more interested in high-quality, unique and locally sourced products. There is also a growing demand for products that not only taste great but also have a story to tell, such as those made from organic ingredients or handcrafted.

The trend towards ethical consumption is also noticeable, as consumers actively seek out brands that align with their values around sustainability, local sourcing and eco-friendly practices. As part of this trend, products that combine high-quality ingredients and aesthetic appeal, such as chocolate-covered strawberries, are becoming increasingly popular for gifting, especially for special occasions such as Valentine's Day, Mother's Day and Christmas.

Our new approach to problem-solving, which considers quality as well as sustainability, is perfectly in line with this market trend, giving us a clear advantage in the premium development area.

Consumer Preferences

The target audience and potential consumers of ChocBerry are people of all ages throughout Ireland, which makes the brand a priority among other gift brands, for example, as alcoholic or sweets with high sugar content are not available to young customers.

Buyers of this group are people who value a unique experience in choosing gifts for their loved ones and friends. They are usually very careful in choosing gifts and are attentive to every detail.

Therefore, we provide a product that satisfies the visual, taste and technical preferences of customers so that they get a unique experience and are satisfied.

Potential Competitors

When it comes to product expansion, it is very important to thoroughly research the market and analyse all possible competitors. For ChocBerry, the market is not very crowded with products of a similar type, but there are still some major high-level competitors.

VerryBerry is an established brand that is probably recognised in the niche berry gift market in Ireland. They have a diverse offering, which makes them an indirect competitor as they can offer a variety of fruits in addition to chocolate-covered strawberries, which appeals to a wider customer base. But this could also be their weakness as they focus on a variety of berries, not just chocolate-covered strawberries.

ChocBerry may be a priority for customers as we are more focused on one product that we sell. In addition, ChocBerry offers a personalised design, something that the VerryBerry brand cannot offer.

Overall, ChocBerry has competitors in the market, but they have an advantage when it comes to customer centricity.

Target Audience Analysis

Target audience analysis is identifying and understanding the qualities, requirements, and behaviours of people most likely to be interested in a product or service, (Masud, 2023).

Concerning ChocBerry's target audience, they are as follows:

Breakdown of Demographic:

Location:	Ireland.
Age:	18-55.
Gender:	All genders.
Occupation:	Adult/Young Adults.
Income:	From 25k to 40k.

Breakdown of Psychographic:

Lifestyle:	ChocBerry appeals to individuals who value luxury, quality, and sustainability. These consumers are discerning and willing to buy premium products that align with their ethical and aesthetic sensibilities.
Personality:	Happy, kind, enjoy life, connoisseurs of luxury and taste.
Values:	Quality products, local production, quality work, sustainability, love to give gifts and make people happy.
Behaviours:	They are careful and attentive in their choice, which also plays a very important role in their lives.

Purchasing Behaviours:

ChocBerry target audience is people who are looking for gifts for their loved ones on occasions such as anniversaries, birthdays and holidays where appearance and quality play a very important role. This means that their purchasing behaviour will increase during major holidays such as Christmas, Valentine's Day, Women's Day, Mother's Day and others, but will also remain at a constant pace due to birthdays and other personal holidays.

Competitive Analysis

SWOT means Strengths, Weaknesses, Opportunities, and Threats. It's a method for finding, analysing, and documenting your company's internal strengths and weaknesses within your control and external opportunities and threats that can affect the realization of your marketing objective, (Ellering, 2024).

Strengths

Sustainability: The use of sustainable packaging and local ingredients meets consumer preferences for organic products, which sets the brand apart from its competitors.

Irish Sourced Ingredients: ChocBerry works only with local growers using fresh and organic Irish strawberries, which resonates with customers who value supporting local businesses and fresh, high-quality produce.

Aesthetic Appeal: ChocBerry products are visually stunning, making them highly shareable on social media and appealing to a visually driven audience.

Perfect for Gifting and Celebrations: Chocolate-covered strawberries are versatile and appealing for various occasions such as anniversaries, Valentine's Day, weddings, and corporate gifting, making ChocBerry a go-to choice for luxury gifting.

Weaknesses

Seasonal Dependency: Strawberries are seasonal, and their availability and quality may vary, potentially affecting the supply chain and product consistency.

Niche Market: The luxury product category limits the target audience to those with disposable income, making it less accessible to a broader consumer base.

Limited Awareness: As a relatively new brand in the Irish market, ChocBerry may struggle with low brand recognition compared to established confectionery or gifting brands.

High Price Point: While the premium price reflects the quality, it may deter potential customers, particularly during periods of economic uncertainty.

Opportunities

Expand Product Range: Introduce complementary products such as chocolate assortments, nuts, or other dipped fruits to diversify offerings and attract a broader audience.

Seasonal and Themed Offerings: Create special editions for holidays like Christmas, Valentine's Day, and Mother's Day, boosting seasonal sales with festive packaging and flavours.

Corporate Partnerships and Events: Position ChocBerry as a luxury gifting option for corporate clients and event organizers, tapping into the high-end business gifting market.

Online Subscription Service: Offer a subscription model where customers can enjoy regular deliveries of ChocBerry treats, enhancing customer retention and recurring revenue.

Threats

Economic Downturns: Luxury goods are often the first to see a decline in demand during economic downturns, as consumers may prioritize essential purchases over indulgences.

Seasonal Fluctuations in Demand: Demand for chocolate-covered strawberries may peak around specific holidays and decline during off-seasons, impacting steady cash flow.

Shifting Consumer Preferences: Changes in health trends or a shift towards vegan or sugar-free products may require constant adaptation to meet consumer demands.

Marketing Campaign Strategy

Objectives

The most important goal for ChocBerry is to increase brand awareness and engagement on various social media platforms. Since the brand is new, it may not be easy initially, but it is very important to pump up existing social networks such as Instagram, Tik Tok, Twitter/X and Facebook.

Referring to SMART, ChocBerry has these goals: Increase social media engagement by 25% by the end of the first quarter of 2025. Also, increase ChocBerry's followers by 5,000 on social media platforms within 6 months. Which will increase post retention by increasing audience engagement with posts.

Key Messaging

ChocBerry's key message is centred around creating the perfect gift for any occasion, which is perfect for all consumer criteria and makes them want to share. Also emphasises premium, fresh and incredible product quality that is in line with all sustainability principles and local ingredients.

Finally, to emphasise the fact that customers are always in the first place and the main task is to listen to them and always leave them satisfied.

Promotional Tactics

To promote the key messages mentioned above, you need to properly organise your content on social platforms and ensure it is relevant.

Social media marketing is one of the most important parts of any promotion these days, so visual storytelling through high-quality photos, videos and carousel posts that showcase the product in all its glory is essential. In addition, weekly themes such as “ChocBerry Moments” will help build on the already utilised Instagram experience as a brand community for discussion and conversation.

TikTok has a very good promotion for video content, so including behind-the-scenes clips, seasonal promotions, ad campaigns and trending content can greatly increase the reach of your Instagram experience.

To increase the reach and trust of a new brand, a very good method is to collaborate with local influencers in the lifestyle and food industry. People trust people, so it is crucial to have trust among trusted people.

Also, seasonal promotions for upcoming big holidays, such as Valentine's Day or Mother's Day, with personalized gift sets and custom designs will help improve the customer experience.

Marketing Mix Analysis

A marketing mix includes multiple areas of focus as part of a comprehensive marketing plan/ The term often refers to a common classification that began as the four P’s: Product, Price, Placement, and Promotion, (Kenton, 2024).

Product

ChocBerry offers premium chocolate-covered strawberries, made from the finest locally grown Irish strawberries and the finest organic chocolate. Each strawberry is handcrafted with love and care, tested to the highest quality standards and presented in eco-friendly packaging, making it ideal for gifting or personal enjoyment.

The brand also offers a range of products to suit all tastes:

Classic: strawberries in milk, dark and white chocolate.

Deluxe Collection: strawberries garnished with a choice of nuts or freeze-dried fruit.

Seasonal and Themed: different designs for holidays such as Christmas, Valentine's Day and Mother's Day.

Gift Boxes: options ideal for weddings, anniversaries, birthdays and corporate gifts.

ChocBerry's unique selling propositions include its commitment to sustainability and incredible presentation, which creates unforgettable customer experiences.

Price

As a luxury brand, ChocBerry uses premium pricing that matches the quality of the products.

Individual boxes range in price from 15 to 50 euros depending on the collection and size.

Customers can also subscribe to a monthly chocolate strawberry box subscription service, starting at 30 euros per month, offering a selection of seasonal flavours and designs.

For large wholesale orders for special occasions and events, the price may vary depending on the number of products and materials used for the order but also has a small discount and free shipping. The company values its customers and strives to implement as many good offers as possible to increase interest.

Place

The main sales channels of ChocBerry are social networks and their website Chockberry.ai. Customers can buy and view products on a visually attractive and convenient site. Also, read detailed information about each product and ask questions to the support service if any questions arise. And of course, the basket for adding and subsequently placing an order is very convenient and practical, supporting any payment methods, even gift cards “one4all”.

To note plans for the future, this is a direct partnership with pastry shops throughout Ireland, as well as hotels, restaurants and cafes throughout Ireland.

Promotion

ChocBerry uses a mix of digital and traditional marketing to reach its target audience.

Apps like Instagram, TikTok, and Facebook focus on visually rich content that demonstrates the attractiveness of the product, its sustainability and its appearance. Also, creative short videos that show the backstage of creation, product unpacking and customer reviews have a very positive effect on increasing audience engagement, recognition and, most importantly, trust.

Cooperation with influencers in the field of lifestyle, sustainability and food to demonstrate the support of proven influencers who already have sufficient trust among the audience.

Also, cooperation with event organisers and food establishments can act as intermediaries in selling chocolate-covered strawberries.

Combining modern with traditional promotion strategies, ChocBerry attracts more audiences and increases awareness.

Content Calendar

A content calendar helps you plan, organise, and track your content efforts so that you can deliver the right content to your customers at the right time, (Ebisan, 2024).

Referring to this statement, the content calendar is an essential tool that allows you to plan and organise your company's marketing. By thinking about posts in advance, ChocBerry ensures better marketing strategies and social media effectiveness.

ChocBerry's target audience is people who like to pamper themselves and those who love sustainability. It is therefore very important to find a balance between native advertising and informative content to properly show the brand's values, namely excellent quality and environmental awareness.

For the end of November and beginning of December, the content will include a lot of promotions and favourable offers, considering Black Friday and the upcoming Christmas discounts on all platforms. The posts will include hashtags such as “sweetsustainability”, “Black Friday” and “Christmas discounts”. The brand not only wants to draw attention to the upcoming discounts and increase the reach of the interested audience but also to mention its sustainability. These posts alternate on alternate days with the usual informative posts to balance the viewer.

In addition to the scheduled posts, he also uses the content of over-the-top scenes and funny moments. These posts give the brand more trust with customers, creating a friendly atmosphere and comfort.

In the end, the content calendar serves as the main guide for communicating values and engaging with audiences across all platforms, while maintaining the brand's concept and ethos of layering and sustainability.

Marketing Materials Creation

Promotional materials play a crashing role in communicating the brand's personality and value to the target audience. For ChocBerry, the main goal is to create content that reflects all aspects of our brand, from quality and sustainability to fun and enjoyment. Each piece of content is carefully crafted and created with care to resonate with the audience and meet their expectations and values.

Customer Reviews: People believe people, so it's important to give an authentic representation of the emotions our customers experience with our products. User-generated content posts that describe real customer experiences, such as gift-giving stories, etc. By publishing testimonials from different customers, including those who buy luxury gifts and environmentally conscious people, ChocBerry shows that one is for everyone, regardless of values and hobbies. These testimonials not only emphasise the appeal of the product but also build trust and loyalty.

Campaigns on Billboards: Our "Enjoy Every Moment" billboard campaign is crucial to ChocBerry's branding. These billboards, positioned thoughtfully near bus stops, showcase our tagline alongside simple yet sophisticated images of chocolate-covered strawberries. The message resonates with busy people looking for a moment of indulgence throughout their daily routines because it emphasises the importance of appreciating life's small pleasures.

Informational posts: ChocBerry attaches great importance to content that is not only beautiful and engaging but also educational and sustainable, alternating between entertaining and educational content. Regular “Did you know?” blogs tell the audience about the use of sustainable packaging or interesting facts. This strategy draws attention to ChocBerry's principles and attracts customers who like to learn new things, care about the environment and want to enjoy tasty treats without harming nature.

Black Friday promotions: ChocBerry posts about Black Friday create a sense of urgency and exclusivity. Such posts increase sales and activity on social media pages and websites because everyone loves discounts and interesting offers. In addition, adding a competition with a prize through activity in the comments and reposting in the story creates natural user-generated content, which also has a very positive effect on engagement.

Landing Page & Email Marketing:

In keeping with the logo and tone of voice, the ChocBerry landing page and email campaigns were thoughtfully designed to highlight the brand's opulent yet approachable aesthetic.

One important point of contact when establishing a relationship with new clients is the welcome email. Customers who sign up receive a coupon code good for 25% off their first purchase along with a heartfelt message thanking them for becoming a part of the ChocBerry community. Beautiful pictures of our chocolate-covered strawberries are included in this email, highlighting their exceptional quality and urging readers to either indulge themselves or discover the ideal present.

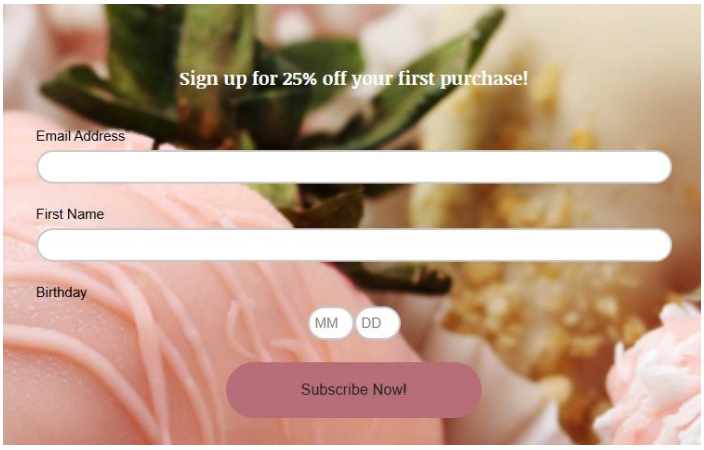
Using vibrant lettering with themes like "Black Friday - 25% Off!" ChocBerry conveys a feeling of urgency and exclusivity on Black Friday. These mailers urge customers to act fast.



A great illustration of how beauty and simplicity can coexist is the landing page for ChocBerry. It has easy-to-use navigation, gorgeous photos of our handcrafted strawberries, and a noticeable banner that offers new customers 25% off. Visitors are encouraged to explore personalisation choices and make an easy purchase by the layout's ease of use and aesthetic appeal.

Overall, ChocBerry's landing page and email campaigns work together to create a holistic, premium experience for customers. Through a combination of visually exciting design and a clear message, ChocBerry successfully engages with its audience, encouraging them to indulge in a luxurious and sustainable treat.

Conclusion

ChocBerry is a brand that guarantees that every client encounter represents its principles as it is overall elegant, reasonably priced, and ecologically concerned. From its well-designed images and captivating advertising copy to its focus on sustainability and quality, ChocBerry always shows its dedication to providing unforgettable events.

The business interacts with its consumers on a deeper level than only providing chocolate-covered strawberries; it provides conscientious delight using environmentally responsible packaging and local procurement. Customers find this strategy appealing as it shows that they are valued members of a community that celebrates the events of life rather than simply consumers.

Ultimately, ChocBerry is positioned to flourish in the luxury gift market by maintaining consistency in branding, supporting its principles, and keeping interacting with its audience through creative marketing.
